Towards the Unity of the Language

The revival of Hebrew speech was none other than the ultimate conclusion of the development of the Hebrew language, in which language conversation was possible in most generations. Ben-Yehudah made folk-literature into speech. His dictionary was also unprecedented in its scope — a dictionary of a language in all its forms, except for the attempt of Moshe Schulbaum. In addition, the historical dictionary of the Hebrew Language Academy, intends to encompass all periods. The historical dictionary project practically calls for a kind of movement for a Complete Hebrew Dictionary, and constitutes a large mustering of forces among and of the nation.
